

The CS pins can be used as a generic output, but they are only expected to be digital outputs (some hubs use a shift register on these). Free1 can be anything

